Fort Fairfield Feb'y 8. 1843

Sir-

By a rule of the General Post-Office Department, Post-Masters are permitted to frank letters containing money for Subscriptions to cheap publications. Hence this consideration I have enclosed ^{to wit some packages of one dollar, one of three dollars, one of five dollars, one of ten dollars, one of twenty dollars, one of thirty dollars, one of forty dollars, one of fifty dollars, one of sixty dollars, one of seventy dollars, one of eighty dollars, one of ninety dollars, one of one hundred dollars.} three separate sums of money, which, with you to forward, to their separate addresses stating my wishes as I have noted them on each separate packet.

I also send you a half dollar which you will please to my credit on postage account.

I wish for the future (if you can make it convenient to do so) for you to enclose all documents, papers and letters of mine, into ^{a separate} ~~one~~ package when you send them from your office to the Quarters. And you will much oblige

Yours Obedt Servt
J. J. H. Hall Esq
